Versailles

“Noble simplicity and calm grandeur” exemplify this elegant collection based on the Louis XVI (1774-1793) style.

The Neoclassical style was revisited following the excavation of the ruins of the Italian cities of Herculaneum and Pompeii (1738-1748) and architectural forms became the basis of furniture design as during the Renaissance (14th-16th century). Fluting and grooving emphasized the verticals, and architecture suggested bases and capitals in the form of moldings. Ornamentation was classic and symmetrical and recalled all the forms of Louis XVI: egg-and-dart, oak leaves, fretwork, ribbons, etc...

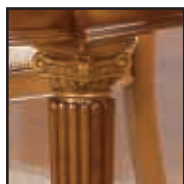

In keeping with this grand era, Versailles is handsomely executed in cherry and madrona burl veneers and solids. Wood surfaces are patterned with sunburst cherry veneer, madrona burl edging, ebony and ziblano marquetry. Each piece generously adorned with gold leaf, hand carved motifs, ribboning and capitals, delicate brass, gilt moldings and Italian green marble. All surfaces are hand rubbed and finally applied with three coats of catalytic lacquer.
